BUK, British Council Collaborate On ‘Action Citizen’ Programme

The Vice Chancellor of Bayero University, Kano, Professor Abubakar Adamu Rasheed mni, MFR has said that Bayero university is ready to integrate British Council’s program, ‘Action Citizen’ into its curriculum, as part of the ongoing processes of transforming the university to Center of Excellence.

The Vice Chancellor, who was represented by the Deputy Vice Chancellor (Administration), Professor Saddiq Isa Radda, while receiving a delegation from the British Council in his office, expressed gratitude that Bayero University was chosen among five Nigerian universities to benefit from the ‘Action Citizen’ program, initiated by the British Council to ensure conformity and development in the country.

Professor Abubakar Rasheed said the university is happy that six staffers have filled in their applications to serve as facilitators in the Action Citizens program, even though three will be selected after the interview, saying that Bayero University, like any other university, is being faced with many challenges; as such it would welcome whatever support from the British Council for it to arrive at the projected goal.

Earlier, the British Council’s team leader and Director of Partnership, Mohammed Ahmed, said they were in the university to conduct interview for the six applicants, who filled application to be nominated as facilitators, saying that the successful ones will travel to London for training and they will eventually come back to deliver lectures in the university on what they learnt.

Mohammed Ahmed said they want Bayero University to serve as a ‘model’ globally in the program, that’s why it was chosen to be among the five universities to collaborate with the British Council.

He said the Action Citizens program engages young people to combat social challenges, as such Nigeria being a past growing population country, the program will greatly assist in transforming the society not only the university community. The target he said is to train both the facilitators and students so that both of them would take the Action Citizen project down to others.

Also contributing, Consultant\Facilitator of the country, saying that ‘having achieved the program, Umar Kawu, said “we would take three persons for training in London and each participant would come back to Bayero University to lecture the course. Later, we would send students overseas as we want also bring foreign students to be hosted by Bayero University.”

Mr. Roy Chikwem, Program Manager British Council, said presently the program is being run in about 30 countries, saying that in Pakistan, Action Citizen Program was co-opted as three credit course unit in their universities.

BUK to Establish Centre For Advanced Medical Research - Prof. Y. Bello

Bayero University will soon establish a Centre for Advanced Medical Research as part of efforts to encourage extensive research in the field of medical sciences, Acting Vice-Chancellor, Professor Muhammad Yahuza Bello has disclosed.

Professor Yahuza Bello, who is also the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic), was speaking in his capacity as chairman at an enlightenment lecture on Biomathematics organized by the Faculty of Sciences as a prelude to the formation of a Biomathematics Research Group in the University.

The lecture took place on Wednesday 16th July, 2014 at Professor A.A. Rasheed Board Room of the Faculty of Science.

He said Bayero University had excelled in the area of teaching, as could be seen from its selection by the National Universities Commission (NUC) as the best University in that feat, BUK intends to be research focused by making research initiative a priority such that in no distant future we will also excel in that area.’

Professor Yahuza Bello said it was in line with the University’s initiative to excel in that direction that the university management established about eight Research Centres across the university to encourage extensive research in most professional fields.

He said globally, research knowledge was gradually moving away from individual research initiative to that of collaborative effort, which was why he commended the faculty of sciences for organizing the lecture aimed at introducing Biomathematics, which he said is multidimensional in nature, incorporating various disciplines.

The DVC who x-rayed the importance of the lecture said the formation of a group was very important, as this would open the gate for linkages with other universities in the area of research. He said it was a group research that exposed the Centre for Dryland Agriculture and enabled it to excel and ‘today the CDA has won a World Bank grant of about 8 Million Dollars for the conversion of the centre into a Centre of Excellence in Dryland Agriculture.’

In his lecture presentation on Biomathematics, Dr. Nafiu Hussaini of the Mathematical Science Department said Biomathematics was an interface of two fields, Applied Mathematics and Biological Sciences and went further to explain the relevance of Biomathematics to other field of sciences.

He gave examples of research in two week training of 108 university drivers by the Federal Roads Safety Corps (FRSC) is expected to facilitate safety driving among the university drivers. Epidemiology, Pharmacology and Computational Neurosciences in which Biomathematics was used to develop models on the level of disease infection, how effective drugs are and predicting dreams at the time an individual is sleeping.

Dr. Nafiu said all these researches required group efforts from professionals in Medical fields, Social Scientists, Biological Scientists, Agricultural Economists to mention but a few. This, he said, forms the bases for the need to form Biomathematics Research Group in Bayero University for cross fertilization of ideas, especially in group research.

Most participants at the lecture were unanimous in their comments on the need for collaborative efforts in research, which they said are the newest avenue in academic parlance to achieve excellence in research fields.
