

Khalifah Isyaka Rabi'u Donates Multi-Billion Naira School Building to BUK

Bayero University has expressed delight to Sheikh Khalifa Isyaka Rabi'u for donating a multi-billion Naira building complex to the University, located at Gadon Kaya in Kano Metropolis, to house the University's Centre for Qur'anic Studies (CQS).

The Vice Chancellor of the University, Professor Muhammad Yahuza Bello, who disclosed this while receiving a 70-member delegation of Alarammomi and Qur'anic reciters from all over the 44 local government areas of Kano and neighbouring states at the Senate Chamber on Monday 18th July, 2016, said Sheikh Isyaka Rabi'u and the University were in the process to formally hand over the building complex.

The Vice Chancellor, who was represented by the Deputy Vice Chancellor, (Academics), Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas, also handed over 500 admission forms to the delegation for them to nominate the same number of people for the admission of the first set of a six month intensive certificate programme, saying the 2016/2017 admission on the programme had 1000 slots.

Professor Yahuza Bello said that this was the first time the University hosted such an important delegation of Qur'anic reciters, many of whom he said were equal to university Professors but for lack of the western system of education were being relegated. He thanked Khalifah Isyaka Rabi'u and his family members for the onerous contribution to the University.

He said the University would provide a framework that would enable the full recognition of certificates from the Centre, adding that the inputs of Alarammomi and Qur'anic reciters would highly be accommodated in the pursuance of the objectives of all the programmes in the Centre.

The Director of the Centre, Professor Ibrahim Muhammad, told the delegation that the Centre belonged to them, saying "We want you to come and contribute to its development; we are very much pleased with the efforts of Khalifah Ishaka Rabi'u." He told the delegation not to restrict the distribution of the admission forms to the Kano metropolis; it should be extended to the 44 local government areas of Kano and neighbouring states.

The Leader of the delegation, Sheikh Gwani Almahir Abubakar Sanusi, informed the Vice Chancellor that they were in the University to express their happiness and willingness to support and partner with BUK in the development of Qur'anic education. He added, "Whenever we visit Khalifah, he inspires and encourages us to be committed to Qur'anic studies and education and he also informed us of his resolve to handover the building complex to Bayero University because of his conviction that the University would help to actualise his vision on the promotion of Qur'anic studies."

BUK Model Primary School Employs 27 Teachers - Committed to Becoming Among the Best

Bayero University Model Primary School has employed additional 27 new teachers expected to report for work from 1st September, 2016, the Acting Principal, Malam Sule O. Ademoh had disclosed.

Speaking during this year's speech and prize giving ceremony held at the Old Campus premises of the school on Friday 1st July, 2016, he said the resolve to employ additional staff was informed by the decision of the Federal Government, directing Vice Chancellors to convert all staff primary schools to private ones.

Malam Sule Ademoh said the Management of the model primary school was committed to ensuring that the school emerged as one of the most impactful model schools in Kano state.

He said the model school had about 1,600 pupils and 36 class rooms, 27 in the Old Campus and 9 at the New Campus. He expressed delight that over 80 percent of the pupils who sat for various external examinations had passed into higher private and public schools.

Malam Sule Ademoh said the model school had won second position of the MacMillan Team Spirit Competition out of 50 competing schools, and was given prizes that include a trophy, a generator set and books, amongst others.

He also said Abdussalam Mika'il of primary 6 won the Kano State Merit Award organised by the Nigerian Turkish International College in collaboration with National Mathematical Centre, Abuja and was given a scholarship for his J.S.S at the Kano Turkish College Centre.

The Principal further said that the school had made a landmark record during the Bukavu Barrack Command Schools Athletics Inter-House Sports Competition, saying out of the 6 participating schools for the relay race, the staff school took 1st position in the 100 by 4 boys relay and 2nd position in girls' relay.

He urged parents to be committed to the education of their children by responding promptly to payment of school fees, the provision of complete instructional or working materials, encouraging their children to develop reading culture, coming to schools to interact and monitoring the progress of their children, amongst others.

Malam Sule Ademoh commended the management of Bayero University for transforming the school to real private model primary school following the Federal Government's Circular of 2014 and 2015 which directed all Vice Chancellors to convert staff primary schools to be privately managed.

Distorted Idiomatic Expression (3) With Sheriff Ahmed

This week we shall discuss five very interesting idiomatic expressions that are being distorted in this country. I believe it is time we corrected them once and for all. As usual, we shall attempt to explain the idioms with examples where necessary. Please do not hesitate to draw our attention to our own shortcomings. It is part of the learning process. Thank you.

- Our resolve to work together vaporized into thin air within a twinkling of an eye.

Two idioms are combined here: ‘vaporised into thin air’ and ‘within a twinkling of an eye’. Both idioms have been distorted. The first one should read vaporised into thin air, while the second should read in the twinkling of an eye. As I have advised consistently, idiomatic expressions must not be adulterated. They must be used as accurately as possible.

- The committee chairman said, “Please give the respondent the benefit of doubt.”

The precise idiom, it should be noted, is give somebody the benefit of the doubt, meaning to assume that somebody is telling the truth about something or is innocent of something because there is not enough evidence that the person is lying or guilty. Note that the omission of the definite article (the) before ‘doubt’ deforms the idiom.

- “He wants the position by hook or crook,” the APC politician accused the DPD senator.

This is another distorted idiomatic expression. The precise idiom is by hook or by crook. Our society is replete with all sort of incorrect expressions and nobody cares, to the detriment of the quality of our use of English. Our students are the greatest victims. That’s why the Use of English has become compulsory in all tertiary institutions in this country. In our days there was nothing like that in the university. Your Ordinary Level English result was enough for you to pursue your course of study. Very sad, isn’t it?

- ✓ The occasion was marked with pomp and pageantry.

Please note that the words ‘pomp’ and ‘pageantry’ are synonyms. Isn’t it tautological to use the words together? Anyway, that’s not the reason why it’s incorrect. The reason is simply that the native speakers of the English language do not say so. It’s a typical Nigerian English. The correct idiomatic expression is pomp and circumstance, as in:

- The last convocation ceremony in BUK was marked with pomp and circumstance.*

b. The visit of the new British Prime Minister to Nigeria was accompanied by all the usual pomp and circumstance.

It's also correct English to say pomp and ceremony, as in:

c. President Muhammadu Buhari's electoral victory last year witnessed scenes of pomp and ceremony not seen in this country since independence.

Collocation is very important in communication. It's so in all languages. Take a look at the following sentence:

d. "I'll visit you tomorrow if the weather permits."

Syntactically the sentence is correct. But native speakers of the English language will say:

e. I'll visit you tomorrow weather permitting.

- In an attempt to hide from his fiancée at a gambling scene, John crashed into his authoritarian boss: from frying pan to fire.

Our interest here is the expression 'from frying pan to fire'. The precise English saying is out of the frying pan into the fire, meaning from one difficult or dangerous situation to an even worse one.

Health and Safety Advice from the Health Services Department - Toward Better Female Hygiene

- ❖ Wash your pudenda thoroughly twice or thrice with un-scented, non-deodorant soap and dry yourself completely.
- ❖ After defecation always wipe from front to back away from pudenda opening.
- ❖ Shave your pubic hairs regularly as overgrown hairs can harbour germs.

- ❖ Frequent douching should be avoided as frequent douching even with warm water can wash away friendly bacteria (normal flora of the area).

- ❖ After swimming immediately change to dry clothing as wet underwears encourage infection.

- ❖ Relaxing in a wet suit made up of synthetic fibers increases the risk of infection.

- ❖ Avoid using tampons if you have infection as tampons can absorb your medication and cause irritation.

- ❖ Change feminine pads and tampons frequently as long staying pads and tampons may encourage replication of harmful microorganism.

- ❖ Wear only pure cotton under wears as it is safer to your organ.

- ❖ Wear pantyhose with a cotton crotch only

- ❖ Wear loose-fitting pants/shorts and avoid very tight ones they would not allow even a little circulation of air.

- ❖ Have your male partner wash his organ before and after coitus.
