

SyWAL Harps on More Researches in West African Languages

Isa Muhammad Inuwa from Vienna, Austria

The second Symposium on West African Languages, tagged SyWAL 2016, ended in Vienna, Austria, calling for concerted efforts of Universities and research institutes around the globe to intensify their researches on the widely spread languages of Africa, as there is more to be discovered about the languages of that phylum.

Addressing the participants at the opening ceremony of the symposium, the head of the symposium organization, Professor Norbert Cyffer, observed that there was dire need for further look into African Languages with a view to developing some vital aspects the languages, particularly the phonology of most of these languages, which, he said had, received less attention. He added that since the initial efforts made in the typology of African languages by Joseph Greenberg and some other scholars, much was yet to be done in terms of developing researches in the languages.

In his remarks, the Assistant head of the symposium organization, Dr. Georg Ziegelmeyer, announced that the symposium was the second of its kind, organized by the Department of African Studies of the University of Vienna, Austria that saying the last one was held in the year 2014. He noted that the idea behind organizing the symposium was to bring together scholars and experts in West African Languages with a view to finding out the current linguistic status of the languages.

While presenting his lead paper, Professor Firmin Ahoua, the Technical Adviser to the Minister of Water and Forests of the Republic of Cote D'Ivoire, compared the African languages to the proverbial "Elephant" and the "Mouse" in terms of the amount of researches made on the languages.

The symposium drew linguists of repute from all the traditional linguistic schools around the world, such as the London school, represented by personalities such as Emeritus Professor Philip Jaggat, from the School of Emeritus Professor Phillip Jaggat, School of Africa and Oriental Studies, SOAS, London and Malam Isa Muhammad Inuwa from the Department of Linguistics and Foreign Languages, Bayero University, Kano, at the Sywal-2016 Conference, Vienna, Austria.

African and Oriental Studies, London. The American School was aptly represented by Emeritus Professor John Hutchinson from the Center for African Studies, University of Boston. The Prague school of linguistics was represented by Petr Zima from the Faculty of Humanities, Charles University, Prague.

Other prominent participants included Professor Nina Pawlak from Poland and others from Moscow in Russia, Hamburg and Bayreuth, Germany. Some African participants came from Ghana, Cameroun and Senegal. Nigeria was represented by Malam Tahir Abba and Malam Isa Muhammad Inuwa, both of the Department of Linguistics and Foreign Languages, Bayero University, Kano.

SCE Holds Orientation for Fresh Students

By Bala G. Abdullahi

The Department of Humanities of the School of Continuing Education (SCE) on Saturday 29th October, 2016 held an orientation exercise for fresh students, at the SCE Theatre.

In his address, the Head of Department of Humanities, Dr. Salihu Lawal Malumfashi, said the aim of the orientation exercise was to acquaint newly admitted students with the general information about the School of Continuing Education and the department, as well as to inform and sensitize them about the rules and regulations of the school.

He said the orientation usually served as a forum/opportunity for the students to interact and ask various questions on matters relating to their studies and the environment. "It also creates a sense of belonging among students and connects them to the school, the staff and other students," he added.

Dr. Malumfashi congratulated the new students and advised them to be of good behaviour, diligent, disciplined and hardworking, as well as face their studies seriously. He equally urged them to face their studies seriously and not allow the university to send them home prematurely. 'More importantly, be cautious of some cardinal sins you will commit in this university – Examinations Misconduct.'

He assured the students that the School of Continuing Education and Bayero University were committed to the training of qualitative, disciplined and hardworking students who, after graduation, turn out to be useful members of their communities.

Others who spoke at the occasion were the Deputy Dean, Dr. Abdul Iguda, the Sub-Dean, Dr. Muhammad Ibn Abdullahi, Professor Junaidu Na'aliya and the representative of the Registry, Alhaji Kabiru Baba. They all charged the students to face their studies and avoid any act of lawlessness and examination malpractices.

Abubakar Abdullahi Sworn in as New MACOSA President

Abubakar Musa Abdullahi has been sworn-in as the newly elected President of Mass Communication Students Association (MACOSA).

Abdullahi polled 270 votes to defeat Adamu Audu and emerge the winner in a keenly contested election which took place on 12th October, 2016. The election according to the Chairman of the electoral committee, Musa Muhammad Dona, was free and fair.

At the inauguration ceremony of the new executives on 26th October, 2016, the President vowed to bring positive changes in MACOSA and thanked all the students for electing him. He also called on them to support him in order to run an all-inclusive administration.

The MACOSA Patron, Dr. Mainasara Yakubu Kurfi, enjoined the new leadership to exercise division of labor among the executives in order to run a transparent administration.

BUK Assistant Coach, Nura Lawan, Wants Graduating Students to Develop Football Career By Nura Garba

An Assistant Football Coach in the Directorate of Sports, Nura Lawan, has promised to help showcasing their God-given talent since the former Nigeria international would also come to Kano on 10th graduating students to develop careers in football instead of spending years searching for jobs.

The young promising tactician, who is in charge of a football club in Kano City, Manchester Tukuntawa, was recently visited by a renown former Nigerian international player, Peter Rufai, who came and inspected some players with a view of securing deals for some talented ones either in Europe or some countries in Africa.

According to Nura Lawan, Peter Rufa'i, who has been a football agent with good connections all over the world, would soon organize a camp in Kaduna to select talented players, who will be flown abroad for greener pasture.

He said graduating BUK students who have developed a passion for soccer had the opportunity to November this year for the same mission.

ISLAMIC WELFARE FOUNDATION
In collaboration with
INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE OF ISLAMIC THOUGHT
BAYERO UNIVERSITY, KANO, NIGERIA

Announces for
2016 CONFERENCE ON ISLAM IN NIGERIA (COIN)

CALL FOR PAPERS

The world has come to a consensus that corruption is the major bane of Nigeria's progress. It has pushed Nigeria to the precipice and the country will go under unless the scourge is arrested. While there is a broad agreement both locally and internationally that there is need to fight corruption, there is little agreement on how the fight should proceed. This lack of agreement on how to fight corruption in Nigeria results from a poor understanding of corruption as a phenomenon which in turn obscures its real causes and confuses how it can be dealt with.

The consequences facing Nigeria if corruption is not tackled at this point in time are indeed very dire. This is why the Islamic Welfare Foundation, in collaboration with the International Institute of Islamic Thought, is devoting the 2016 edition of her annual Conference on Islam in Nigeria to unraveling the issue of corruption in Nigeria. The conference is intended to generate fresh insights that will improve understanding of the phenomenon and also facilitate the fashioning of effective solutions to the problem especially within the dictates of Islam. In consonance with our philosophy that religion, especially Islam, has a place in public life, the conference will discuss the issue of corruption in Nigeria from the Islamic perspective.

THEME: Islam, Muslims and the Fight Against Corruption in Nigeria

SUB-THEMES

- Concept of Corruption in Islam
- Islamic Models of anti-Corruption War
- Good Governance and Anti-Corruption War in Nigeria
- Shariah and Anti-Corruption War in Nigeria
- Judicial Systems and Anti-Corruption War in Nigeria
- Economics of Anti-Corruption War in Nigeria
- Islamic Financial System and Anti-Corruption War in Nigeria
- Religious Organisations and Anti-Corruption War in Nigeria
- Ancient Muslim Communities in Nigeria and Anti-Corruption War
