Nigeria Centre for Reading, Research and Development (NCRRD), Bayero University, Kano organized its 4th national conference on Children's Books and the Teaching of Early Grade Reading in Nigeria.

Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas, who declared the conference open on Wednesday, 4th October, 2023 at Dangote Business School, said the successes recorded during the previous conferences were inspiring, with hundreds of participants attending from all parts of the country and beyond. He said this year's conference is equally encouraging despite current economic challenges globally and Nigeria in particular.

The Vice Chancellor, who was represented by the Deputy Vice Chancellor, Management Services, Professor Mahmoud Umar Sani, stated that the establishment of the Centre was made possible by the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) in 2017 through a collaboration with Learning Systems Institute (LIS), Florida State University, Tallahassee and Bayero University, Kano.

He said the collaboration ended in June 2020 and the Centre is now fully under the University. "It is quite pleasing the significant progress made after the collaboration ended with the various activities of the Centre such as the introduction of courses for the advancement of teaching and reading in Nigeria, by collaborating with Faculty of Education to train teachers handling early grade reading at postgraduate level and the short-term certificate courses" he said.

The Vice Chancellor acknowledged the support of USAID for always supporting the conferences and commended the Universal Basic Education Commission for being a supportive stakeholder and committed in improving early grade reading in Nigeria.

In her remark, the Director of the Centre, Professor Talatu Musa Garba said as part of its mandate, the Centre had instituted the annual conference in 2019 to provide a platform for teachers and other educationists to share ideas on the best practices for the promotion of teaching reading in Nigeria.

She said the Centre focuses its attention on supporting teachers to revive the reading culture amongst students, poster literacy and academic achievements through its postgraduate diploma programme, a collaboration with the Faculty of Education, BUK.

Prof Garba noted that as a research-based Centre, the NCRRD has a number of ongoing collaborative researches with other experts, adding that the constitution of the fellows of the centre includes language educators with backgrounds in English, Hausa and Arabic.

“Therefore, we welcome more partnerships and research collaborations, so that together we shall promote the teaching of early grade reading in Nigeria,” she said.

Presenting a keynote address titled: The Earlier the Better, Literacy and Transformative Impacts of Pedagogical Innovations and Research, Professor Graceful Onovughe Ofofu from Ekiti State University, said much needs to be done in Nigeria in terms of promoting reading culture. She said the earlier this is done the better, calling for the policy makers to provide an enabling environment especially at early grade literacy.

According to her, research has shown that the literacy level of Finland is amongst the highest globally with 50% of children before school that can read and write and that the country has 93% of enrolment.

She advocated the need for the embracement of digital tools that will aid reading and learning among the pupils. She noted that the use of multi-media instructional approaches such as the application of games in teaching and learning and use of interactive e-books would significantly help students better.

The Vice Chancellor of Kaduna State University, Professor Abdullahi Ibrahim Musa, who presented a lead paper on Rethinking Digital Tools in Nigeria: A Philosophical Inquiry on Reading, said one of the great problems in education system in Nigeria is one-sized fit education curriculum without taking into cognizance the individual differences. He said Nigeria must use individualized or active learning system to thrive.

He advocated the need for policy makers to enforce the use of technological tools in the design of education curricula to make life easier for teaching and learning in schools.

VC Commissions Rebecca Rhodes Resource Room at NCRRD

By Nura Garba

Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas on Wednesday, 4th October, 2023 commissioned a resource room named after Rebecca Rhodes at the Nigeria Centre for Reading, Research and Development (NCRRD).

The Vice Chancellor acknowledged the contributions of the pioneer Director, Professor Ismaila Tsiga for initiating the idea of establishing the centre which he discussed with him when he was a Deputy Vice Chancellor. He said the university pushed the idea and established the centre in collaboration with Florida State University.

The Vice Chancellor noted that the contributions of Rebecca Rhodes in the establishment of the centre. He charged the Centre to work assiduously to make the resource room known all over the country. The Vice Chancellor added that the University Management would continue to support the Centre to promote reading and research development in the country.

While acknowledging the immense contributions of the pioneer staff of the Centre, Prof Tsiga, Prof Talatu Garba and Professor Kiyawa, he noted that the contributions of Rebecca Rhodes for her immense contributions towards the establishment of the centre is commendable.

A tribute of Rebecca Rhodes written by Jana Wooden, USAID/Nigeria Education Office Director and read at the commissioning ceremony said “Today, we are happy to join you in commissioning this resource room named after our beloved Rebecca Rhodes, a former Senior Education Specialist at USAID in Washington, DC. It is obvious that everyone here has a passion for education and high hopes for the future in Nigeria. We agree that this Reading and Research Center plays a critical role in ushering in generations of Nigerian children with stronger reading skills.

Before her demise in 2022, Rebecca was an outspoken champion for improving foundational learning for children and youth. She provided technical guidance on the design, implementation, and evaluation of reading, literacy, and numeracy programs in more than 40 countries, and was instrumental in shaping USAID's focus on learning outcomes, particularly in early grade reading. Rebecca worked tirelessly to ensure that children and youth have equal access to education opportunities, including girls, children and youth with disabilities, and other marginalized groups. She was a mentor, colleague, and friend who supported the professional development of countless education professionals around the globe including the professionals at this center. The passion she brought to each team she worked with reflected not only her technical expertise, but also her deep understanding of and love for the countries they represented. Rebecca's dedication to education and energy for her work were legendary and her impact on the global education sector is monumental.”

The resource room has a modest collection of books and e-resources with Umar Ali Haruna as the Chief Librarian.

English Dept. Organizes Grand Homecoming Reception for Ex. NUC Boss, Prof. Rasheed

By Salisu Inusa Ismail

There was an outpouring praise as the Department of English and Literary Studies, Bayero University Kano organized a warm homecoming reception to honour the immediate past Executive Secretary (ES), National Universities Commission (NUC) and the former Vice Chancellor of Bayero University, Professor Abubakar Adamu Rasheed.

The colourful event which was well attended by dignitaries took place on Thursday 5th September, 2023 at the Boardroom of the Department.

Speaking, the Vice Chancellor, Prof Sagir Adamu Abbas said that he was deeply surprised and scared when he heard the news of Prof. Rasheed's resignation notice. He added that it takes only an extraordinary person to take such bold decision as some people can go the extra mile in order to remain in such exalted position.

Prof. Abbas added that the University was lucky to have Prof. Rasheed as one of its own and even luckier to have him heading places outside the University.

While describing his relationship with the celebrant that transcended beyond the usual official engagement, Prof Abbas wished him more vigorous health so that he will continue to do more for the university and the education system.

In his remarks, the Head of the Department, Dr. Aminu Bala Danyaro said that the Department and its staff collectively felt the need to organize that warm reception out of recognition of the celebrant's immense contributions to the Nigerian education system. He then used the occasion to applaud him for his great decision to return to University particularly the Department as they were eager to tap from his wealth of experience and wisdom.

Earlier, the chairman of the occasion, Prof. Mustapha Muhammad expressed delight on the return of the greatest icon and a model to the Department in particular and the University system as a whole. While emphasizing the positive qualities of the celebrant, he described him as generous, saying, 'he does everything for everyone'.

As testament to honoree's life touching impact, some senior members of the Department were not left out in the praise galore as they took turn in showering praises on Prof Rasheed for being a great father, mentor, and someone who had shown a keen interest in their personal growth and progress. Those who spoke at the event were the DVC Management Services, Prof. Mahmoud Umar Sani, Prof. Ismail Tsiga, Prof. Said Babura Ahmad, Prof Ibrahim Bello Kano, Prof. Mustapha Ahmad Isah, and Dr. Sani Said Ibrahim.

Reacting, the honoree, Prof. Abubakar Adamu Rasheed expressed his happiness for the warm reception he received, saying that he was made to feel really welcomed as he had always wanted to come back to class especially at BUK. As he pledged his unwavering commitment and willingness to participate in the departmental activities under the headship of the HOD, he thanked everyone for their kind words and for organizing such an event in his honour.

Highlights of the event included a touching poem entitled "Tribute to Prof. Rasheed" by Abubakar Maikudi Zukodgi and the presentation of a plaque to recognize Prof. Rasheed's outstanding contributions to the Department and the Nigerian University system.

Other dignitaries in attendance included DVC Academics, Prof. Sani Muhammad Gumel, Prof. Sambo, Prof. Aliyu Kamal, Prof. M.O. Badmus, Prof. Rabi Abdussalam, Prof. Amina Adamu, among many other.

Faculty of Clinical Sciences Organises Revision Course and Placement Examination for 98 Transfer Students from Sudanese Universities

By Lamara Garba

The Faculty of Clinical Sciences has organised a revision course and placement examination for about 100 transfer students from Sudanese universities.

The Dean of the Faculty, Dr. Idris Mohammed, who disclosed this at the opening ceremony of the programme, noted that the exercise became imperative as part of effort to ensure that only qualified candidates got admitted into the university's medical programme.

The students whose studies were truncated by the crisis in Sudan, were admitted after receiving approval from the Medical and Dental Council of Nigeria (MDCN).

According to him they would undergo a four-week revision course as a refresher for their prolonged out of school period. Thereafter, they will undergo examination to test their knowledge, skills and competencies. This will allow proper placement and integration into the medical school.

Dr. Mohammed explained that the approval given by the MDCN was in recognition of the quality which had since

The Dean, Student Affairs expressed profound appreciation to the Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas for the tremendous support towards the actualization of electronic voting for the Student Union election.

He further thanked the Vice Chancellor for the various initiatives geared towards the promotion and enhancement of the students' welfare.

Those elected into the affairs of the students body are, Comrade Aliyu Abdullahi Mahmud from the Dept of Business Administration as President, Comrade Naja'atu Muhammad from Education as Vice President; Comrade Hassan Zubair Baki from Environmental Management as General Secretary and Comrade Umar Nuruddeen from Microbiology as Assistant General Secretary.

Also elected into the SUG are Comrade Abdullahi Musa Maso from Electrical Engineering as Treasurer; Comrade Faruk Muhammad Sani (Accounting) Financial Secretary; Comrade Abdulkadir Muhammad Ahmad(Law) as Public Relations Officer. Others include; Comrade Balogun Nafisat Teniola (PHE) as Director of Sports; Comrade Suleiman Hassan (Sociology) Director of Social; Comrade Olanitram Maryam Opoye (Criminology) Director of Environment; Comrade Yusuf Abdullahi Sani (Petroleum Engineering) as Director of Sales and Comrade Musa Muhammad Khamis (Education) as Welfare Officer.

The new President, Comrade Aliyu Abdullahi Mahmud, vowed to lead with dignity and respect, saying he would run an open door so as to regain the glorious past of the students Unionism.

He promised to run an all inclusive government, urging his other fellow contestants to team up with a view to achieving the desired objective of ensuring good governance as well as supporting the management in its quest to make the university great.

been regarded as the best in Northern Nigeria.

"The University Management approved the transfer because of genuine concern for the young talents whose studies were affected by Sudan crises," he added.

Dr. Mohammed thanked the Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas for the support rendered to the Faculty thereby making it to become the best in the entire Northern region.

He also commended the commitment and patriotic zeal of the staff and lecturers of the Faculty which made other institutions to emulate. "With utmost humility, I can vouch that BUK's clinical programme is adjudged as one of the best in the country," Dr. Mohammed enthused.

BUK's Center for Qur'anic Studies to Institute Nigerian University National Qur'anic Recitation Competition ... Collaborates with National Almajiri Commission on Tsangaya Development

By Lamara Garba

Bayero University's Center for Qur'anic Studies is to institute Nigerian University Qur'anic Recitation competition specifically for university students, the Director of the Center, Professor Ahmad Murtala, has disclosed.

Prof. Ahmad Murtala, Director Centre for Qur'anic Studies

Speaking on Saturday, 30th September, 2023 at Mahmud Tukur Theatre at the 2nd graduation ceremony and award of Basic Qur'an and the Ijazah Certificate said the programme was aimed at reawakening Qur'anic studies amongst the students.

He said already, arrangement has reached advanced stage in preparation for instituting the competition which would be conducted annually and rotating among universities across the country which would be open to all Nigerian universities.

There is also another international Warsh Qur'anic recitation competition specifically organized to revive the age long Warsh mode of recitation in the West African Region.

Professor Murtala also revealed that a Special Qur'anic Competition for the people with special needs is on the pipeline. The competition, he said was designed to cater the needs of physically challenged allarammomi and memorizers of the Qur'an among them.

"The purpose was to boost and develop their capacity in the tsangaya system of education," he added.

Equally, the Center will enter into collaboration with the National Commission for Almajiri and out of School Children as part of effort to ensure improvement on Tsangaya and other related programmes.

In his address, the Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas, commended the Center for the laudable initiative, saying in view of the successes recorded from inception to date it has justified its existence.

The Vice Chancellor, who was represented by the University Librarian, Dr. Kabir Dahiru Abbas, explained the university's foresight of establishing the Center which he said was informed by the desire to improve the relevance of Qur'anic Scholars and schools (Tsangaya) in modern day.

According to him, the Center has been very active and impacted positively by creating awareness among allarammomi by resetting their mindset towards looking into their monumental roles in the society in order to curtail the menace attached to almajirci.

Also speaking, the Executive Secretary of Almajiri and Out of School Children Commission, Honourable Ibrahim Sha'aban Sharada expressed delight for the existence of the Center for Qur'anic Studies and its objectives which are in line with the mission and vision of his Commission.

He disclosed that the Commission would soon sign a collaboration with the Center with a view to advancing the course of Tsangaya system as well as finding solution to the problems associated with almajirci.

The Imam of Kano, Emeritus Professor Sani Zaharaddeen in his remarks, said the establishment of the Center was the best thing that anyone with the interest of improving on Qur'anic studies could do. He commended the initiator of this noble idea and charged the management never to reлект in making the Center active.

Highlight of the event was the presentation of certificate to the graduating Allarammas.

BUK Rejuvenates Centres

By Salisu Inusa Ismail

In an effort to rejuvenate and boost the research productivities of the university's centers for high impact, the management of Bayero University under the visionary leadership of Prof. Sagir Adamu Abbas has injected five hundred thousand Naira (N500,000.00) to six top performing Centres, totalling Three million Naira (N 3,000,000.00) as a takeoff research grant as part of a deliberate move to revitalize the quality of their research outputs.

This development was disclosed on Friday 29th September, 2023 by the Vice Chancellor, Prof Sagir Adamu Abbas in his office while receiving a report of the Management Committee on the Performance of the University Centers of Research.

While commenting on the report, Prof Abbas used the occasion to unveil his unwavering commitment and resolve to reposition all the research centers in order to align with the university's vision and mission. He also pointed out that these centers were identified following a discreet evaluation into their research activities, hence their recognition for exceptional contributions.

The six grant winning centers were International Institute of Islamic Banking and Finance (IIIBF), Aminu Kano Center for Democratic Studies (AKCDS) Mubayya, Center for Renewable Energy Studies and Technology (CREST), Center for Biotechnology Research (CBR), Center for Infectious Disease Research (CIDR), and Center for Gender Studies (CGS).
